Marginal Inscription on the Inside of Plate, Reading from Right to Left: "Hussein and Hassan were the sons of Ali, and successors to Mohammed. Omar murdered them. Have you heard of Hussein or Karbela? Have you heard that his red blood flowed? Did you not see what thousands of men did? Have you heard of how fast his blood flowed? How Sanan pierced his side with a spear? Did you see the blood flow fast from his vein? Did you hear that the leader fell under the horse's feet? Did you not hear how he cried while under their feet? Did you hear that it was like the dark night of pain for a bride bearing her first born? How the whole sun was darkened? Did you hear how the standard-bearer fell under feet? Did you not see whose back the enemy (Omar) broke? I, the humble, in need of help and pity, am for you, oh, my great Amir. Date of Shiraz, 126."

Marginal Inscription on Reverse of Border, Reading from Right to Left: "With tearful eyes, bearing the ensign of religion, he fell from the saddle of his horse. The Arabian moon changed its course; wept so much that the sun was darkened. The whole world wept over the dead body of Hussein. He was slain to pieces by Abdar's sword. The river Euphrates turned to where he had fallen, as if it felt the sorrow. The multitude turned their eyes towards the enemy. That water consoled the troubled hearts. The mourning lasted sixty days."

Central Inscription: "Did you hear that a sick one was taken away in chains? Did you not see him take the road to Sham (Damascus)? Did you hear that a woman went from Koofa to Sham (Damascus)? Did you not hear the slave crying?
